New features summary

Load latest data set

We added a Load Latest Data Set link to the homepage. This link is only available to users with the Comparative Analytics Admin role and allows those users to load the latest data set on demand.

The Data availability target date is the 23rd of each month. Data is automatically refreshed that evening. Exceptions to this set timing can occur due to a variety of circumstances. This option is to be leveraged when an exception data import is needed.

IMPORTANT: We recommend that you only perform this function in the evening. Depending on the size of your organization and server activity, it may take Axiom Comparative Analytics several hours to load the latest data set. No Comparative Analytics data will be available during this process.
